

A map showing a section of a road, likely in Russia, near the town of Kandalaksha. The road is depicted as a thick orange line. To the right of the road is a large, irregularly shaped blue area representing a body of water. The land is shown in a light green color. Three green rectangular markers with white text are placed along the road: one at the top, one in the middle, and one at the bottom, all labeled 'E105'. The name 'Kandalaksha' is written in black text in two locations: once above the middle road marker and once next to a red dot on the road.
