

A detailed map of the Oakville and Waterbury area in Vermont. The Naugatuck River flows along the eastern border. Steele Brook runs through the center, with several smaller brooks like Echo Lake Brook and Water Brook branching off. The map shows a dense network of residential streets in both towns. Key parks include Sylvan Lake Park, Waterbury Park, John A. Coe Park, and several smaller ones like Hemingway Pond, Delano Field, and Panlatis Pond. The town names 'Oakville' and 'Waterbury' are prominently displayed in the center and bottom right respectively.
