

Toledo Police Chief Derrick Diggs and Mayor Mike Bell refuse to make the city's gang map public, so The Blade decided to create one. Using information from gang members and Toledo police sources, the newspaper created this map, which shows areas claimed

A large swath of South Toledo, in red on the map at the bottom of the page, fits that description. The area includes some of the nicest homes in the city along River Road, but drug sales in the area are controlled by the Southside Folk gang.

Most, if not all, of the more than 40 known gangs in Toledo have smaller subsets — sometimes they claim the same territory, sometimes they don't.

define the territories are from multiple gangs from different parts of the city. The police officers who helped The Blade did so with the promise of anonymity because they were ordered by police officials not to provide information to the newspaper.

Nation: Bloods. Based out of the Moody Manor low-income apartment complex, the gang has numerous subsets including the Gotti Girls, Gotti Boys, and Young Savage. Members claim to be rivals with everyone, but the Cherry Woodz, from the nearby Greenbelt Place Apartments, are a central fo-

Nation's Bloods. The gang, which claims to be a family, has a citywide reputation for violence. Members were charged in August with participating in a criminal gang, but police said the charges, which have all been dismissed, have done little to quiet gang activity in the area.

Gangsters
Nation: None. The gang had a long-standing feud with the Out Hill Boys, which ended about two years ago. Members say the gang doesn't identify with colors, but they wear Adidas-brand clothing.

Nation: Crips. Named for Derrick Turner, whose street name was X Boone. Turner was shot to death April 17, 1998, at Detroit and Highland avenues. Subsets include the Charge Boys and Charge Girls. Charge, which has about 50 members, was first known as Young N***** in Charge.

Nation: Folk. The gang, which is also called N.A.R., Nolia Ave Recc, was based at the Brand Whitlock Homes until the public-housing complex was razed in 2012. The gang is now more spread out as residents from the complex moved around the county. The gang was founded by former Libbey High School students.

Nation: Bloods. Police sources say the gang started with intentions to rob carryout stores to earn cash and create music. In one robbery at Page and Mulberry streets, the gang's leader, Lamar Allen, was killed by a clerk; another, Joseph Hunter, was convicted of numerous felonies.
