

A map of Heilongjiang province, China, illustrating its geographical features and administrative divisions. The province is bounded by Jilin to the north, Liaoning to the northeast, Inner Mongolia to the northwest, and Russia to the west and east. Major cities marked on the map include:

- Qiqihar: Located in the northwest, near the border with Jilin.
- Daqing: Located in the southwest, near the border with Inner Mongolia.
- Harbin: The capital city, located in the southeast.
- Suihua: A city located in the central part of the province.
- Hegang: A city located in the far east of the province.

The map also shows many smaller towns and districts, such as Fuhai, Yilan, Tongbe, Culluan, Jinshantun, Nancha, Dailing, Langxiang, Tangyuan, Hongkeli, and many others. Rivers and roads are indicated by lines and dots across the map area.