A detailed map of the Chicago area, including the city of Chicago and parts of Indiana and Wisconsin. The map shows the Chicago River flowing into Lake Michigan. Various neighborhoods and landmarks are labeled throughout the city. A legend in the bottom right corner provides information on depth, bathymetry, and other geographical features.

An inset map of the Svalbard archipelago, specifically the northern part. It shows the main island of Spitsbergen and several smaller islands like Edgeøya and Bünsow Land. A small rectangular box highlights the area around Adventfjorden, which is the focus of the detailed map below.

An aerial photograph of a coastal city. In the foreground, a wide, light-colored sandy beach meets a dark blue ocean. To the right, a city skyline with numerous skyscrapers is visible across a green park area. The city's grid-like street pattern is clearly seen extending from the park towards the horizon.
